

FEDCAFÉ

the free online community where federal agency staff connect with university faculty and graduate students

285 schools of public policy, administration and affairs

the Fed Café is an exciting new website where federal agency staff quickly and easily connect and engage with:

faculty who can offer their completed research and who can analyze your data students who want to learn about what you do, and can volunteer “virtually” to help with projects requiring only a few hours’ work schools who are looking to partner with agencies for capstone projects

- do you have an issue or challenge that might make a good Capstone project for graduate students?
- do you have research questions you need answered by experts? or a dataset to be analyzed?
- do have a small project that students could complete in a few hours as a “micro-task”?
- have you solved a complex problem that could serve as a case study?

join the Fed Café!

it’s a matching site for research and collaboration: you submit what you have to offer, and what you’re searching for — and look for a match!

sponsored by NASPAA
the global standard in public service education

FedCafe.org

for more information: FedCafe@naspaa.org